+ Day 1 IKA airport-Tehran (Capital of Iran) / Arrival: Tehran

Arrive to IKA airport (Tehran), meet tour guide(English speaking-for other languages please contact us) in IKA airport and after welcome tourists, transfer to hotel and check in. First day Tehran city tour include visiting: Golestan palace (UNESCO World Heritage Site) as Golestan palace is complex of palaces, 2 palaces will be visited, then Sardar-e Bagh-e Melli /The Gate of National Garden, National Museum of Iran, Imamzadeh Saleh holy shrine, Tajrish square and Bazar...

Golestan Palace is a building located in the central part of Tehran city, which was built in the late 980s of AH during the Safavid era and was used by 7 Qajar kings as a place of residence and kingdom. Golestan Palace is a collection of several mansions, courtyards, gardens, halls and passageways, each of which can be a historical monument and a unique tourist attraction.

The presence of various kings in this palace has made the soul of the building witness important historical events, some of which we know about. But some others, like a secret in the heart of the building's walls, will remain silent forever. Among the historical events that took place in Golestan Palace, we can mention the coronation of Muzaffaruddin Shah and Ahmad S...

Majlis, the preparations for the extinction of the Qajar dynasty and the establishment of the Pahlavi dynasty, the sitting and coronation of Reza Shah and the coronation of Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlavi. The fact that Golestan Palace was built during the Safavid era, but what comes out of the heart of history now is all the events of the Qajar and Pahlavi eras, it is related to the fact that Golestan Palace underwent many changes and sometimes many damages throughout history. Therefore, currently there is not much information about the events that happened in this building before the Qajar era.

Imamzadeh Saleh is the name of a shrine located in Shemiranat city of Tajrish city. As it appears from the inscription above the head of the courtyard and according to the books of Bahr al-Ansab and Kenz al-Ansab, he is one of the sons of Imam Musa Kazem and the brothers of the 8th Imam of the Shiites, Ali son of Musa. The building of Imamzadeh has been included in the list of national monuments of Iran since 1351 and has been registered as number 909.

+ Day 2 Tehran

Tehran 2nd city tour include visiting: Saadabad Palace Complex(2 palaces), carpet museum of Iran, Milad tower and Tabiat bridge,....

Saadabad Palace is Royal Palaces in north of Tehran; Built in 19th century, the complex consists of several palaces, as well as forests, streets and museums. The general area of the complex is more than 1 sq.km. Museums exposition covers different aspects of Iranian mythology, art and culture, and is a complex introduction into Iranian history and life of the last Shahs of Iran in 19th and 20th centuries. The complex was constructed in the 19th century and belonged to the Qajar era monarchs and their families. In 1920s Shah Reza Pahlavi added some buildings to the complex and used the palace as a summer residence. In 1970s his son, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi moved there. In 1979, after the Islamic Revolution, the complex became a museum. Iranian Cultural Heritage Organization operates and maintains the complex.

Milad Tower is 435 meters (1,427 ft) tall and is the tallest tower in Iran , and the sixth-tallest telecommunication tower in the world.

Tabiat Bridge (Pol-e Tabiat) is the largest pedestrian bridge built so far in Iran. The bridge is about 270 meters long and consists of a 3 dimensional truss with two continuous levels that sits on three tree shape columns.

The Iranian Carpet Museum is one of the most spectacular attractions in the capital for those interested in carpets and the art of carpet weaving. In this museum, a collection of old and very valuable and precious carpets made by the handiwork of famous Iranian artists and all kinds of rugs are displayed for the public to visit. If you want to get to know the Iranian Carpet Museum, its history, sections and address, stay with us.
